

Career Now:

I am Special Projects and New Business Venture Merchandiser with Wal-Mart ($345 billion company) Global Sourcing India Operating Group, part of Wal-Mart International. Awaiting news on my next promotion.....stay tuned.

Wal-Mart says:

"Aman's passion, energy and drive are quite remarkable," said Wal-Mart's Wes Bean, Director of Sourcing, Retail Import Development, stressing that "Aman's hunger for new challenges, his commitment, drive and professionalism will serve him well as he progresses in his career."

"Aman has been most impressive in the one year we have worked together," said Rajnish Kapur, Managing Director, Global Home, Wal-Mart China. "His enthusiasm, positive spirit, sound analytical skills and practical approach to work make him a true asset. And he's a great team player."

I am an International Seneca Success Story

Seneca gave me:

Career Building:

- His peers elected him General Merchandising Manager of an on-campus clothing boutique.
- He took on two extra internships in the corporate offices of two major corporations, Footlocker and The Bay, receiving "stellar reviews," for his marketing, buying and merchandizing skills, said Cameron.
- He was an active member of the India Club. His excellent grades in a wide range of subjects showcased his "versatility, breadth of talent and his clear understanding of our business."

Scholarships:

- Aman received two international Seneca student bursaries.

"I was lucky. I chose the right school and had the best experience. Retail is booming in India. I want the global exposure now, but ultimately, I would like to settle in Canada because I like the professionalism, the work-ethic and the people."
